“Painting is a solitary act. This series of paintings and works on paper encapsulate an inert feeling of isolation and quiet calm. They are a direct reaction to the complexity of the world and how I identify with it. For me, there is no limit to the understanding and exploration of time and space. I am laser focused on the passage of time and compressed space in order to create a pause or shift to reflect the dualities that exist between nature and the human condition. Imbuing personal symbolism and elements that are not necessarily logical, these paintings are not only a nod to abstraction and landscape but ultimately to an alternate universe and the fourth dimension.”
